Skate the Blind. Skateboarding classes taught at a maximum of 4 students per instructor.. Video review of the Pash and Hi Pro Skates. Private Skate Lessons Braille Skateboarding Skateboard accessories there are so many different types of skateboard gear. There is training gear, wheels, trucks, bearings, hardware, you name it. Most of the time when it comes to skateboard accessories there are only two main types of skateboard wheels. The first is a high-top truck and the second is a low-top truck. The best way to shop for skateboard wheels is online, but buying in person also. When I first started skating I went to Asda to buy my wheels. Then I bought my first set of skateboard trucks and started the journey to the holy grail. I actually bought two sets of trucks. One cheap set of Salmons and one set of Transfer Cases. Even though Tony Hawk appeared on the scene back in the early '90s, his background as a professional BMX racer helped him to develop the ollie into a maneuver that's still used by today's skateboarders. In fact, the exact same trick is still used by BMX riders to this day, giving it an early skateboarding success story. I am so glad I made this purchase! I do need to clean up my ollie and I need to get better at making it more stylish, but for the first time 82157476af
